Dear Sir,-Yours of the 13th instant,
enclosing me a copy of the resolution passed by your Chamber of Commerce, is just received. I fully concur in the views set forth in the resolution, and at the last session of Congress advocated legislation giving Federal aid for the improvement of our public highways. I believe our public money can be spent to no botter purpose than in the improvement of our roadways and rivers.

OFFER A BILL.
As soon as Congress convenes I will introduce a bill "for paving a roadway from Petersburg to the Federal Cemetery," and use my best efforts to have it passed.

I will state, in answer to your question
as to what chance there is of getting

I will state, in answer to your question as to what chance there is of getting this bill through Congress, that it is an exceedingly difficult question, and one that 1 cannot with any accuracy answer. I will say, however, that the measure is a good one, and, considered on its merits, ought to pass, and I think has a chance. Very truly yours,

R. G. SOUTHALL.

The passage of such a bill would mean the building of a fine roadway from the city out into Dinwiddle county, for a distance of, more than five miles, and would be of, sreat value.

At the next meeting of the Common Council Mr. Lassiter will present a resolution from the Chamber of Commerce, petitioning the Council to pave the unimproved portions of Washington Street, between Sycamore Street and the corporation line, with sheet asphalt and vitrified brick. The resolution was offered by Mr. Lassiter at the last meeting of the Chamber of Commerce and adopted,

His Hands and It Went With the Bank Failure.

HE EXPLAINED TO

Not Invest, But Simply Handled the Funds.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., July 22.—When the United States District Court convened this

erty and all the money she possessed, she lost it all. After the death of her husband she desired to take her children on a trip to Europe, and upon leaving Asheville she gave Breese her papers and documents, and instructed him to invest her money. He had been a good friend of her dead husband, and she felt that she could trust him implicitly. Mrs. Nye also said she owned property in.—Now York, which was left in charge of Broese, and she lost this also.

Breese testified that, while it was true that he had charge of Mrs. Nye's papers, he did not understand that he was authorized to act as her agent in disposing of her property. He collected the interest on her money when due and passed it to her credit. When the bank failed he turned the papers over to his son, W. E. wrote Mrs. Nye to this effect. Upon her return from Europe the defendant visited her at Buck Shoals, her country home, and explained all the details of the failure. Upon the objection of the district attorney he was not permitted to relate the conversation.

The witness denied that he drew Mrs. Nye's money out of the bank, saying he could not have done so, for the reason that he had no authority to sign yor name to checks. He also denied all knowledge of the loss of Mrs. Nye's property in New York. This property, he said, was purchased by Mr. Nye before his death, and was covered by a mortgage.

said, was purchased by Mr. Nys belove his death, and was covered by a mortgage.

Breese then went on to explain in detail different notes, and said he knew nothing of the charges of forgery.

Major Breese admitted that he had signed the name of W. W. Rollins to two notes for $1,000 each, on April 6, 1897. These were the notes Major Rollins had declared to be forgeries when he was on the witness stand last week. The witness said his relations with Rollins were cordial and Intimate. When he affixed Major Rollins's signature to the notes it was for the purpose of taking up two notes that had been rediscounted. Major Rollins was out of town at the time, and upon his return he ralified the action by signing and giving Major Breese a blank note.

The defendant will likely remain on the stand all day to-morrow, and another week will probably be consumed with the trial.
